

KATE WERBLE GALLERY

83 VANDAM STREET NEW YORK, NY 10013

PRICE $4.99

THE

JULY 27, 2009

NEW YORKER

GALLERIES—DOWNTOWN

"COMMUNICATION COORDINATION CONSIDERATION"

The sculptor Nathan Carter rounds up three younger artists who share his buoyant approach to materials and his interest in codes. Emily Landon's bright plywood bestiary—painted cut-outs of life-sized bears, foxes, deer, egrets, and others—crowds the center of the gallery like a Seussian forest of signs. In Susan Rodriguez Gutierrez's elegant haiku of an installation, vinyl silhouettes of birds in flight create a shadow play on the gallery's wall and window. Best of all is Katie Murray's video of a Queens high-school drill squad performing a razor-sharp routine, edited from four years' worth of footage. Through July 31. (Werble, 83 Vandam St. 212-352-9700.)

THE NEW YORKER, JULY 27, 2009

||

TEL 212-352-9700 FAX 212-352-9704

www.katewerblegallery.com EMAIL info@katewerblegallery.com